History's 6 greatest con

Today's crafty con men owe a huge debt to the early con artists who went before them, shrewd hustlers who came up with some of the most ingenious and bold scams ever.

Many of these schemes have been refined over the years and are still in use in various forms today.

Here are the men that researchers might cite as the greatest con artists in history:

The Great Gangster — In the 1930s, all of Europe was fascinated by colorful American gangsters. At the peak of the frenzy, a German publishing house was offered a manuscript titled Carrying a Gun for Al Capone, a true account of the infamous Chicago mobster's life by one of

. . . because she was mad at men!

SAN DIEGO — A heartless mom was ticked off at the males in her life, so she vented her frustration by blowing out the brains of her own four young sons!

Former hospital worker Susan Eubanks, 35, was convicted of first-degree murder, after gunning down her helpless boys Matthew, 4 months, Brigham, 6, Austin, 7, and Brandon, 14.

"She was fueled by her anger against the men that she perceived had betrayed her," Deputy District Attorney Bonnie Howard-Regan said in court.

"It was callous. It was cold. It was Susan Eubanks not being able to control the rage anymore. So they had to suffer, even if it meant taking away the lives of four innocent children."

The chain of events leading up to the senseless killing spree began on October 25, 1987, when Mrs. Eubanks, a recent divorcee, was hooking at a bar with her construction-worker boyfriend.

"They had an argument and he said he wanted to break up with her," Denise Bender, a spokeswoman for the San Diego District Attorney's Office, told Weekly World News.

"They went back to her house and there was a big scene. He wanted to remove some of his stuff and she wouldn't let him. He ended up having to call the Sheriff's Department."

Deputies arrived and quieted the violent row, in which Mrs. Eubanks deliberately smashed her ex-boyfriend's truck. He managed to get away in one piece — but her children weren't so lucky.

Furious at being dumped by first a husband and then a boyfriend, the bitter, embittered woman decided it was payback time. So she got out her .38-caliber pistol and methodically shot each of the terrified boys in his head.

Mrs. Eubanks made her motives clear by leaving a chilling message for her ex-husband Eric.

"She called and left a message on his answering machine," Ms. Bender told the AP/UPI. "It said, 'I've lost everything I've ever loved. Now it's time for you to do the same.'"

When Eric Eubanks later retrieved the message he was horrified and called the police, who went to the murder mom's home and walked in on the aftermath of the bloody rampage.

After killing the boys, Mrs. Eubanks had reloaded and turned the gun on herself, shooting herself in the stomach.

But she survived the injury and was later charged with multiple murder.

At her trial, which began this August 15, her defense attorney tried to appeal to the jury's sympathy, arguing that she was legally intoxicated at the time of the crimes plus co-worked up on tranquilizers that she was unable to form a conscious intent to commit murder.

But the jury didn't buy it — they convicted the killer mom and voted that she be put to death.

But it later turned out that rock enforcer "Jack Dillo" was really a German flimflam man named Hugo Baruch who had never even been to Chicago!

The Man Who Sold The Statue of Liberty — Scottish scam-artist Arthur Ferguson pioneered the now-infamous con of "selling" national landmarks to gullible tourists. In 1871 he sold Old Ben Franklin's Philadelphia home to a group of Japanese visitors for $100,000 a year! His biggest score-job was convincing an Australian businessman that the Statue of Liberty had to be dismantled to widen New York Harbor, so the Aussie bought it for half a million dollars!

The Land Owner — Schooling swindler James Reavis used his knack for forgery to convince railroad tycoons and other businessmen of the 1880s that he was the legal owner of 12,000 square miles of New Mexico land. The Santa Fe Mining Company and others shelled out a total of $20,000 a year for the right to use "his" land.

The Bluffer — Sly turn-of-the-century bunco artist Joseph Weil inspired the movie The Sting. The master was best known for the fake bank scam, in which he rented an abandoned bank, hired fake tellers and bamboozled businessmen into thinking he had started a genuine bank. He waited until enough victims deposited large sums of money before shutting down and disappearing with the loot.

MAN was conned into buying the Statue of Liberty.

Indecisive? Here's how to make decisions

LOS ANGELES — The average American adult makes a whopping 70 important decisions every day, but some people are so plagued by indecision that their lives come almost to a standstill. If you are hemming and hawing over one or more key decisions, you can make that decision with confidence by following these tips from management consultant Robert Heller:

- Determine which decisions must be made quickly and which can wait for more deliberation.
- Make a checklist of the issues, both pro and con.
- Weigh each alternative and determine how likely each is to occur.
- Imagine the worst that could happen and decide whether you could live with that result.
- Take one of the alternatives and take action to implement it.
- Write down your fears and throw them in the trash.

It's boot-scootin' time!

Court says town can boogie the night away!

RESTAURANT OWNER William Elam relaxes at the bar after his successful court battle to overturn the town dancing ban.

By MICHAEL FORSYTH | Weekly World News

POUND, Va. — Delighted residents are now free to boogie again for the first time in nearly 20 years in a town where dancing was banned just like in the movie Footloose!

After a federal judge overturned an ordinance that effectively outlawed public dancing, country music fans have been heading in droves to kick up their heels at the local Golden Pine Restaurant, trying out fancy moves like the Texas Two Step, the Boot Scoot and the Twirl Push.

"My patrons love it — people love to dance," restaurant owner William Elam, who filed a suit to overturn the ban and operates the only dance hall in town, told Weekly World News.

But not everyone is happy about the recent court ruling. Political leaders and church officials in this town of about 1,000 people are convinced that hip-thrusting and cheek-to-cheek dancing can lead to sinful thoughts.

"There's bound to be trouble when you mix drinking, country music and dancing," worried town council member Daniel Stanley told a reporter.

Passed in the early 1980s, the law banned dancing in any public place that did not get a written permit from the town council — and gave the council absolute power to deny a permit to "anyone who is not of good moral character."

Elam, tired of explaining to out-of-town visitors why they couldn't kick up their heels at his nightspot, applied for a permit last year — the first person ever to do so. The town council stalled the application and brought in 200 citizens to testify. Disappointed, but not surprised, when the request was turned down, Elam withdrew the application and went to court to have the regulation overturned altogether.

U.S. District Judge Glen Williams struck down the anti-dancing law, ruling that it violated the Constitution's free-speech guarantee.

Since then, it's been standing room only at the Golden Pine on a Saturday night — although it took some folks who hadn't danced in years and were a bit rusty a while to overcome their shyness.

"It was kind of comical at first," recalls Elam. "People were sitting around looking at each other waiting for someone else to go first."

Convinced that right is on their side, the town council has announced plans to rewrite the ordinance to pass constitutional muster.

But Elam's attorney Michael Ralston told the NEWS that having the right to dance is important, "because we're Americans."

New study reveals winning pickup lines ... that can spark an instant romance!

When you want to meet an alluring stranger, there are some right lines to use — and there are definitely some wrong lines, says an expert.

"I'm sort of shy but I'd like to meet you," is a good line to try. It's an example of the direct approach, says psychologist Dr. Charles L. Kleinke, who found in new studies that opening lines fall into three types.

They are the direct approach, the harmless question and the cute-flippant lines.

"You look like a warm person," "Hi, I like you" and "You seem different. I like that," are direct approaches.

Harmless opening questions — which are also effective — include:

"Have you seen any real fantastic movies lately?" or "Where are you from?" or "I know I've seen you before. Do you live around here?"

But lines you should definitely avoid are the cute-flippant openers, such as, "Do you feel around?" and "Isn't it cold? Let's make some body heat."

Men didn't rate lines like these lines very highly — but women actually hated them, said Dr. Kleinke, who surveyed about 1,000 subjects at Boston College, asking them to rate opening lines for his study.

"Two opening lines women absolutely hate are, 'Is that your real hair?' and 'You remind me of a woman I used to date,' Dr. Kleinke said.

It's wise to tailor your approach to the situation. For example, here are the best opening lines to use in a bar, according to Dr. Kleinke: "Do you want to dance?" or "It took a lot of nerve for me to approach you" or "May I have a drink with you?"

But the worst openers are "I don't like your jewelry" and "Bet I can out-drink you."

Some good supermarket openers are, "Excuse me, which snack looks better to you?" or "Do you think [a product] is good?"

But the worst openers are "That item is full of cholesterol," advised Dr. Kleinke, author of the book First Impressions.

And excellent opening lines at a restaurant include these: "Would you like to have a drink with me after dinner?" and "Since we're both eating alone, would you like to join me?"

But the worst are: "If this food doesn't kill us, the bill will" or "If you think the service is bad, wait until you taste the food!"

Hijacker kills 747 pilot in midair — because the guy wouldn't let him fly the plane!

Japanese hijacker kills jet's pilot

Two other pilots refuse man who said he wanted to fly plane

NEWSPAPERS around the world reported the shocking story.

By KEVIN CHEID / Weekly World News

TOKYO — A frustrated would-be pilot hijacked a passenger plane and brutally murdered the jet's captain — because the pilot refused to give him a flying lesson and wouldn't let him fly the airplane!

Japanese authorities said the knife-wielding man forced his way into the cockpit of All Nippon Airways Flight 61 and ordered the co-pilot and another crewman out of the compartment. He then commanded pilot Naryuki Nagashima to let him take the controls of the Boeing 747 and demanded that the pilot "give him some pointers."

When Nagashima refused, the man slashed his throat, killing him.

"I only wanted to take a flying lesson and do some loops," the killer told police.

The hijacker, unemployed laborer Yuji Nishizawa, boarded the flight alone. Witnesses described him as "nervous" and "edgety." About 15 minutes into the flight between Tokyo and Nagasaki, Nishizawa got out of his seat and walked to the cabin. One woman said she thought he was going to lodge a complaint about the flight.

Instead, he pulled an 8-inch knife on one of the flight attendants and forced his way into the cockpit.

'I only wanted to take a flying lesson and do some loops,' killer says

After he killed the pilot and took control of the plane, it became clear that Nishizawa had no idea what he was doing. The plane lost altitude immediately. At one point it plunged 2,000 feet in less than five minutes, the Transportation Ministry reported.

The incident ended when the co-pilot and other crewmen stormed the cockpit and subdued Nishizawa.

They returned the plane to Tokyo's Haneda Airport, where Nishizawa was promptly arrested.

Friends of Nishizawa were stunned by his bizarre behavior. He had no prior arrests and no history of mental illness.

"He always wanted to be a pilot and he was obsessed with learning to fly," said one former co-worker.

"But he could never afford flying lessons.

"I guess he just snapped."

Police have charged Nishizawa with murder and kidnapping.

The incident marks Japan's first-ever deadly hijacking.

WORLD'S BEST WEATHERMAN DOESN'T USE BAROMETERS OR RADAR — HE JUST LOOKS OUT THE WINDOW

. . . and he's only been wrong twice in his life!

SYDNEY, Australia — A meteorologist whose flawless forecasts have dumbfounded his rivals for more than 20 years has finally revealed his secret: He simply looks out the window!

TV weatherman Jim Doggerty, whose predictions have been wrong only twice in more than 5,800 broadcasts, admitted in a recent interview that he never bothers to look at barometers, Doppler radar or satellite photos.

"I learned how to use all that stuff back in school, but frankly, I find that I do better just trusting my instincts," the easy-going Doggerty, 46, told a newspaper here.

GEORGE SANFORD
Weekly World News

"I open the window, stick out my head to get a feel for the temperature and look up to check out the cloud patterns. It really gives me a good idea of what to expect."

Doggerty's innovative approach leaves his colleagues, other weather experts reluctantly agree, he's the most accurate meteorologist the city has ever had.

"When Doggerty says it's going to rain, it's going to rain — you can take that to the bank," marvels fellow weatherman Ed Parkman.

"And you never catch him trying to hedge his bets with the old 'partly cloudy with a chance of showers' kind of dodge. He makes a rock-solid prediction — and of course, he's always right.

"We're all somewhat envious of him."

Doggerty is the last person in the world who would ever put down the science of meteorology or the new high-tech equipment available today.

"All that equipment is great," he said. "It's just not for me. I used conventional measuring devices for a couple of years when I first started out, but I kept noticing that every time the equipment disagreed with me, it turned out that I was wrong and I was right."

Experts can't explain Doggerty's amazing talent. One paranormal researcher has even suggested that the father of four might have hidden psychic ability that helps him to predict the future.

That makes the veteran weatherman chuckle.

"I'm not psychic — I've just got a great view for weather," he said.

WASHINGTON — In 1996, the average new mom spent only a day and a half in the hospital after having a baby. But the average hospital stay increased to more than two days in 1999.

Experts say the reason is that insurance companies used to pay for only one day of hospitalization. But after numerous complaints, a law went into effect in 1997 that requires insurance companies to cover 48 hours.

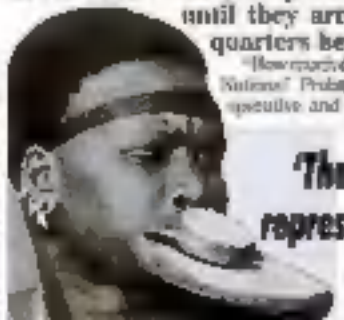
THE HIDDEN DANGER LURKING IN THE UNITED

Did you know that a bunch of Arab towel-heads, savages, idol worshippers and wacky Pakis are

By PRICE HAMLET / Weekly World News

NEW YORK CITY — Hardly a day passes when the United Nations doesn't make a decision that will affect you and your children for the rest of your lives, but what do you really know about this oddball collection of weirdly dressed and often shifty foreigners — many of whom had never seen a fork, telephone, television or car until they arrived at U.N. headquarters here?

"How much do you know about the United Nations? Probably not much," former CIA executive and U.N. expert Mark Browder told reporters.



'The average U.N. representative doesn't even know how to use a facility toilet'

"The fact is, I don't know how much the U.N. knows about the U.N. I mean, come on — you can't pluck men and women out of deserts and jungles, off islands and mountaintops, and then throw them into a skyscraper in the middle of New York City and expect them to have any kind of handle on what they're supposed to be doing and why they're supposed to be doing it.

"That is especially true when you realize that, on average, representatives have just a fourth-grade education. Many have never yet been in a schoolroom, much less studied in one.

"And yet, we expect them to make decisions about social, political, cultural and military issues that are so complex the world's best minds aren't real clear on them.

"I have to tell you — only the lucky few have ever been to a toilet that flushes. The average U.N. representative doesn't even know how to use a facility toilet and ask him to weigh in on issues like nuclear disarmament and chemical and biological warfare — issues that profoundly affect the national security of the United States.

"For that matter, how can you take a man or a woman who's idea of economic planning is to stash away an extra annual skin to trade for a sewing needle and ask him to figure out the best way to dole out hundreds of billions of dollars — many of which are your tax dollars — in foreign aid?

"It's like asking a baby to build the Empire State Building with Play Doh and Lincoln Logs. It just ain't gonna happen. But for some reason, we keep pretending points out that most people think of the United States, Russia, China, Japan, Israel, the United Kingdom, France, Germany and a few other European countries as being the 'world'.

"But, when the U.N. gets together, you have representatives from 180 countries — 185!" continues the expert.

"Try to name just 10 and you'll begin to see what a complicated mess the United Nations really is. Most of these people come from countries that are so incredibly backward and poor that only a handful of the richest citizens have ever used a telephone or seen a newspaper or a TV.

"The life expectancy in these countries hovers around the age of 40. Just stop and peciancy is 70-years-plus. But in Afghanistan, for example, and 99 or so other countries, you're worn out, actually an old person ready for a senior citizen's discount card, when you hit 30.

"It's clear that a man or woman who expects to die at the age of 40 isn't going to view life and the world like you and I do — not by a long shot. But that doesn't keep the United Nations from empowering them to make decisions that affect us all, not just for now, but forever."

Here, according to Brandler, are little known facts about the U.N.

"If you are shocked," he added, "call or write your Congressmen and tell them to stop the madness and get us out of the U.N. — before it's too late."

FACT: Representatives, particularly from Africa, have been known to bring their own food to banquets given in their honor. Others have been discovered hiding food in their pockets and purses.

FACT: Many representatives have been found to be carrying weapons, including knives, hatchets, poison darts and liquids, wooden dolls and razor-sharp karate "throwing stars" — from members each and every day the U.N. is in session.

Over the years, although none has died, three representatives actually have been hit with poison darts while addressing the General Assembly.

FACT: Almost half of the 159 countries represented in the United Nations consider women to be second-class citizens with few if any rights beyond the right to bear and rear children and do what men tell them to do.

FACT: A staggering 92 percent of nationalities represented in the U.N. consider themselves and their people to be smarter, stronger, prettier and more capable than all other nationalities despite the passage of hundreds of resolutions declaring all men to have been created equally.

FACT: On at least 22 occasions since the U.N. was founded in 1945, representatives have been found to be carrying bombs, including one suitcase type to blow up at least two satellites and the sun.

This doesn't count the U.N.'s Hindus, who worship everything that moves and sits still. Scholars say there are over a million "gods" on the Hindu books at present, with more being added as true believers stumble onto something new to worship.

FACT: Representatives have been found to be carrying such weapons as a malfunctioning boom box, an electric blanket, costume jewelry, Monopoly money and a six-month supply of canned corn.

In each instance, the trade was discovered and undone by majority vote of the General Assembly.

FACT: Dozens of resolutions proposing animal and human sacrifices to end droughts, plagues and pestilence have been proposed and narrowly rejected on the floor of the General Assembly.

FACT: Slightly more than half of U.N. representatives believe that having their picture taken results in the loss of their souls. Needless to say, terror ensues anytime anyone pulls a camera out on the floor of the U.N. and that's why the movement of news photographers is severely restricted.

FACT: Throughout the 1940s and 1970s, a block of 24 Third World countries consistently sided with the United States against the Soviet Union until it finally occurred to them that they, themselves, were socialists — and should have been siding with the Russians.

FACT: At last count, 34 percent of representatives absolutely refused to believe that American astronauts have been to the moon. A slightly smaller percentage, 31 percent, think the world is flat and give no more credence to a newscast showing shuttle astronauts zipping through space than they give to a Disney cartoon.

FACT: When put to a vote — as it has been on 11 occasions — grasshoppers and tortillas consistently rank as the "official snack food" of the U.N.

FACT: The authors of children's books are often enlisted to help write U.N. resolutions so that representatives will have a better chance of understanding them.

It's never been stated for the record, but the beloved Dr. Seuss is believed to have ghostwritten no fewer than 400 resolutions before his death in 1991.

FACT: Six representatives have shrunken a head in the past six months — eight others have tasted human flesh.

FACT: One third of representatives have two or more wives.

FACT: Surveys show that U.N. representatives are far more fascinated with fire than the general population.

Cigarette lighters and kitchen matches are the first and every No. 1 gift representatives send back home.

FACT: The official languages of the United Nations are English, French, Spanish, Russian, Chinese and Arabic. Unofficially, the language of choice is Swahili.

IS BEAUTIFUL MYSTERY GIRL A REAL-LIFE ANGEL?

HEAVEN SENT. Stander being claims to be a messenger from God.

She has no sex organs and no known blood type — and she's surrounded by a soft, golden glow!

By MIKE FOSTER / Weekly World News

JERUSALEM — After running a battery of more than 40 different medical tests, puzzled physicians admit they still can't say with certainty whether the mystery girl found in the desert by Israeli troops over the summer is an ordinary human or an actual angel.

The gentle, soft-spoken creature appears to be a young adult female with no physical imperfections — as well as no apparent sex organs — and is constantly surrounded by a soft, golden haze.

"We have been unable to isolate the source of the glow," said Dr. Moshe Horowitz, a cardiologist who participated in the extensive examination. "We have detected no signs of exposure to radiation or contamination by phosphorous."

Investigators say the slender being has the breasts of a normal human female, "but down below looks just like a little girl's doll."

"She has no external genitalia and furthermore, X-rays determined that she has no internal reproductive organs whatsoever," confirms Dr. Horowitz. "We've never seen anything like it."

When the woman was found in the desert by five soldiers on patrol on August 24, she refused to present identification papers and would say only that she was a "messenger from God."

Her flawless white robes, which she wore when she was found, were filthy and stained with blood. But the blood was not her own. Nor was it the blood of the soldier she touched and brought back to life after he had been shot and stopped dead — convinced the soldiers that she was an angel. And by the time they escorted her back to headquarters, rumors were flying about the discovery.

Despite efforts to keep the story under wraps, it was soon picked up by Israeli tabloids, which churned out headlines such as "Angel or Spy?" and "Angel Captured!"

A team of more than a dozen physicians with a variety of specialties were brought in to examine the woman by government officials, who reluctantly agreed to make the findings public.

Among the physical anomalies discovered by the scientists and released to the press: The woman's blood does not match any known type, her heart beats just 10 times per minute, she has no navel or any indication of ever having had an umbilical cord; her sodium level is 800 times the norm, the pineal gland in her brain is 30 times larger than that of an average human.

The mystery woman has thus far refused to divulge her message to the world — insisting that she must speak directly with Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak.

But she reportedly told one of the soldiers, "The King of Israel must make preparations, for the King of all Kings is coming soon."

CHOCOLATE IS GREAT FOR YOU!

AMSTERDAM — Who says we never hear good news anymore? A brand-new study shows chocolate is great for you!

That's right. Research by Dr. Ilja Arts of the National Institute of Public Health and Environment in the Netherlands reveals that chocolate contains high levels of antioxidant substances called catechins that help fight cancer and heart disease.

For years, scientists have been telling us to drink tea because it contains these substances. But Dr. Arts and her colleagues found that there are 53.5 milligrams of health-promoting catechins per hundred grams of dark chocolate — a lot more than are found in tea.

MOBILE, Ala — A lady motorist passing by a roadside prison work detail spotted the brute who raped her 10 years ago — so she spun around, put the pedal to the metal and mowed him down!

Now the vigilante driver could face years behind bars. But so far, she has expressed no remorse.

Alabama officials were trapped in a bit of secrecy over the circumstances surrounding the bizarre incident, fearing a backlash against the use of chain gangs.

They were obliged to release any details about the case — declining to officially confirm that a crime occurred.

"Frankly, they are trying to make this whole thing disappear," a law enforcement insider said.

But freelance reporter Dan Greggor, who heard the original call on his police scanner and arrived at the accident scene even before the cops, managed to piece together the shocking story.

"When I got there, I saw this blonde Gene in a dress," he said.

"A prisoner was lying dead and there were about a dozen other guys from the chain gang standing around, looking horrified.

"The corrections officers were holding a woman for questioning.

"The county sheriff's office was one of the prisoners said she was the same who was run over was a big, tough guy named Johnson."

The reporter also learned the woman briefly before state troopers arrived and whisked her off.

Her name is being withheld by Weekly World News because she is the victim of a sex crime.

Do you have a question about your celebrities that you've been dying to ask? Drop a line to Christie . . . Hollywood's Answer Girl and she'll dig up the inside scoop. Write to: Weekly World News, 600 East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33464-9963

Q I feel sorry for poor Gary Coleman. I think he could have been close to the real Dana Plato, who played his adopted sister on the hit sitcom Diff'rent Strokes, and her death — now in a long string of tragedies for the former stars of the show — must have hit him hard. Has he got over it yet?

— Miss P., West Palm Beach, Fla.

A The pint-size former child star got over Dana's death in about two milliseconds!

"I was not upset or surprised," cocksparked Gary told People magazine after his TV sister's fatal drug overdose. His biggest concern, the now-broke performer says, was that "the press issue not whether it would affect my ability to get employment."

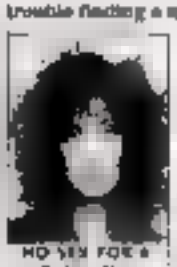
Q Is it true that superstar Cher has been celibate for six years? If so, why? She's beautiful, rich and famous. How could someone like her have trouble finding a man?

— Georgiana S., Columbus, Ga.



NO SEX FOR 6 YEARS: Cher

A The Believe singer did take a six-year break from sex following her split with Sonny but getting married to Richie Sambora. One thing that's made it hard finding a man she trusts: Most men have such big egos, her fame gets in the way. "No man wants to be Mr. Cher," she explained in an interview earlier this year, adding the difficult (but male attention) all that implies.

Dana was Gary Coleman's adopted sister on the hit sitcom Diff'rent Strokes

Dana's death at least drug overdose has TV viewers doubt who were

Q Please settle a running argument. I've been having with my chums about how old the actor Kevin Spacey, star of L.A. Confidential, American Beauty and many other movies, is or was?

— Mandy B., Prescott, Ariz.

I LOVE you, number: Kevin Spacey

A Spacey is straight as an arrow! After the star played a flamboyant gay bloke in the crime drama Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil, an Esquire article came out in 1997 insinuating that he really did have eight in his shoes. Spacey didn't directly refute the charge at the time, but he recently told People, "It's not true."

But the girl crazy actor hasn't [illegible] by the lingering rumor — because it's backed him plenty of beautiful women. "They want to be the one to turn me around," he says. "I let them!"

Q Whatever happened to Margot Kidder? She was so wonderful as Lois Lane in the Superman movies opposite Christopher Reeve, but I haven't seen hide nor hair of her in ages.

— Jerry S., Thornton, Colo.

A The husky-voiced actress has spent years battling severe manic depression that once prompted her to wander the streets like a bag lady — and she's finally managed to get the crippling mood disorder under control. Now the spunky star is calling on her "fellow nuts," as she puts it, to toss out their pill regimens and cure mental illness the natural way just as she did — with herbs and other alternative treatments. Margot blasts the use of psychiatric drugs as a personality-erasing "pharmacological lobotomy."

Q As a struggling actress I just can't stand it when I see all those other girls get all the good movie roles just because they're related to a big star, like Henry Fonda's granddaughter Bridget Fonda. Wouldn't you agree that having a famous name makes film success a piece of cake?

— Amy F., New York, N.Y.

A Not necessarily. Bridget, the daughter of Peter Fonda and niece of Jane, says she really had to struggle just to survive acting school — and her pedigree actually made life harder.

"What I had was beyond stage fright," [illegible] Zeke Florid star admitted in an interview. "I'd think, 'I'm the worst person in class.' They all looked at me like I should know better — because of my heritage. I could be yelled at by the teacher, humiliated. But I couldn't give up because I'm stubborn."

Q I'm a big fan of singer Whitney Houston. Did she always know she'd be a big success or was she plagued by self-doubt like so many other young performers?

— Carrie Y., Newark, N.J.

A Whitney has always known that she was more talented and beautiful than other would-be superstars — and never doubted for a minute that she would make it to the top of the showbiz heap.

Scientists' research reveals . . .

It takes 3 million years for a human soul to reach Heaven

. . . and no one from Earth has arrived there yet!

By MIKE FOSTER

Heaven is a mind-boggling 3 billion light-years from Earth, space scientists have recently determined — a distance so vast that not a single person who's died in all of recorded history has yet reached the Pearly Gates!

"Even traveling 1,000 times faster than the speed of light, a human soul would take 3 million years to cross that gap," explained French astrophysicist Antoine Letelier.

"That means that even the earliest prehistoric ancestors of modern man are only now beginning to arrive in Paradise."

Apparently, that fraction of light determined all souls in people who've died since the beginning of time "are much farther than any of us previously imagined."

Startling photos taken by both the Hubble Space Telescope and the Mars Pathfinder have pinpointed a shining white city suspended in the black [illegible] billion light years away.

[illegible] leaked by an insider [illegible] World News are widely believed to depict Heaven itself.

And the implication of the great distance is [illegible]

"Even a single light year, the distance light travels in one year, is [illegible] — 3 [illegible] miles," said Prof. Letelier.

"Presumably, for human soul has been mass allowing it to travel at the speed of light — the fastest any natural object can move.

"In fact, let's assume that because of its supernatural nature, a soul can travel 1 million times faster than light.

"Even at that breakneck rate, the earliest ancestors might just now be arriving at Heaven's gates — and if you died today, you wouldn't get there until the year 3000 A.D."

Even the space philosopher Sartre [illegible], who died in 1980, and Abraham Lincoln, assassinated in 1865, are still in transit, according to Prof. Letelier's theory.

The scientist noted that the time factor is important because people should know they must prepare mental games to keep them on the long voyage to Paradise. "You certainly don't want to show up at God's home as a couch potato."

While not endorsing Prof. Letelier's theory, church leaders are intrigued. Said a Lutheran minister, "Science is showing us that the afterlife does not [illegible] a quick trip straight to Heaven but a [illegible]"

THINK YOU'VE GOT THE FLU? IT MAY BE POISON!

Do you suffer from frequent, flu-like symptoms: Headaches, nausea, dizziness? It's possible it's not the flu but the first signs of carbon monoxide poisoning, experts say.

Carbon monoxide poisoning — most commonly caused by auto exhaust from worn-through tailpipes and mufflers — can happen to anyone. And it frequently does!

"I have found that mild carbon monoxide poisoning is a great imitator of its symptoms, and it is often misdiagnosed. It tends to be overlooked or confused with something else," reveals internist Dr. Frederick Platt.

He estimated that as incredible 100,000 cases of low-level carbon monoxide poisoning are going undetected or misdiagnosed every year.

Dr. Ted Grace, an internist and one-time accidental victim of carbon monoxide poisoning, agrees.

"Often, people will think they have the flu. Even their doctors will think that."

A defective or a worn-through tailpipe or muffler leaking exhaust beneath a car's passenger compartment can poison the interior.

If you can smell exhaust fumes when you're behind the wheel — particularly when your windows are rolled up — have your car checked out by a mechanic.

Faulty oil and gas home furnaces, gas hot water heaters and inefficient flues have also been blamed for many cases of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Be sure they are all in tip-top condition.

If you are frequently plagued by headaches, nausea or dizziness — see a doctor. He can order a simple blood test to check for carbon monoxide poisoning.

MY AMERICA By ED ANGER

Today's fat & lazy kids need a swift kick in the keister!

I'm madder than a nerd with a busted calculator over a new study that shows American kids are the fattest and most disgusting bunch of couch potatoes in the history of the world.

PHOTOS!! Supposed to stay active kids like Wally and The Beaver on Leave It To Beaver? They weren't like today's fatbutts

Seventy percent of our boys and girls can't do a single chin up, for crying out loud! Forty percent of the boys and 70 percent of the girls are pooped after a single push-up. Forty percent of the boys can't even touch their toes and 25 percent of all kids can't do one sit up!

Let's face it, folks. That's so pathetic it makes me want to throw up. I could do 100 pull-ups when I was in the third grade for Pete's sake.

What real true fatbutts need is a swift kick in the keister if you want my opinion.

What makes me so pathetic mad about our flabby specimens today is where the hell are our future Marines and fighter pilots going to come from? Are they couch addicts who barely have enough energy to push the button on a remote channel changer to get fed?

What this country needs is a national boot camp for these fat crybabies where we can turn 'em into REAL men and women who'll have the stamina to protect our great land.

Whatever happened to those great American kids like on Leave It To Beaver, where the Beav and his brother Wally were always in the air?

How many times did you see The Beaver watching the boob tube, or playing a computer game back then? I'll tell ya, that's how many.

He was always climbing trees or helping the dad Ward Cleaver ride the waves on a surfboard.

And that's what we need today, folks. A bunch of Beavers who'll grow up and not lean their fat-burning machines

Beans, beans, the musical fruit — & they lower cholesterol to boot!

You can significantly reduce cholesterol levels in your body and cut your risk of heart disease — just by eating two ounces of beans every day.

By PAT WELLS
Weekly World News

"Beans reduce the risk of deadly heart disease by dramatically reducing cholesterol," said Dr Herman Hellerstein.

The highly beneficial effects of beans in the diet were reported by some Chinese researchers who were looking for ways to treat high blood cholesterol without drugs that have side effects.

In a 15-month study of 341 people, scientists found that cholesterol levels were lowered within one to three months after adding beans to the diet.

Cholesterol levels in people who had high cholesterol were lowered by 20 percent, while people with low or normal cholesterol levels were reduced by a significant 8.9 percent.

"The fact that it lowered the cholesterol level of people with low cholesterol to start with and did the same exact thing with people who had elevated cholesterol makes this extremely valuable," Dr Hellerstein said.

Dr Robert Ackland, a professor of medicine, said: "I would think eating beans is a reasonable thing in terms of reducing heart disease.

"I would suggest this to persons who cautiously want to cut down on the risk of having heart attacks."

Dr Hellerstein said any kind of beans can be used in the diet — "lima beans, kidney beans, all kinds of beans."

It is not known exactly why beans lower cholesterol.

However, scientists say that there is evidence that cholesterol, which beans are rich in, may inhibit the absorption of cholesterol by the body.

Both Dr Hellerstein and Dr Ackland, however, cautioned that foods that are heavy in animal fats, like ice cream, milk and steak, should be reduced in the American diet.

The youngsters, who typically are covered with fine white hair, are "completely human," according to Chinese scientists, who blame the unusual characteristics on inbreeding in remote areas of the Himalayas.

They call the widespread Yeti claims the result of "mass hysteria."

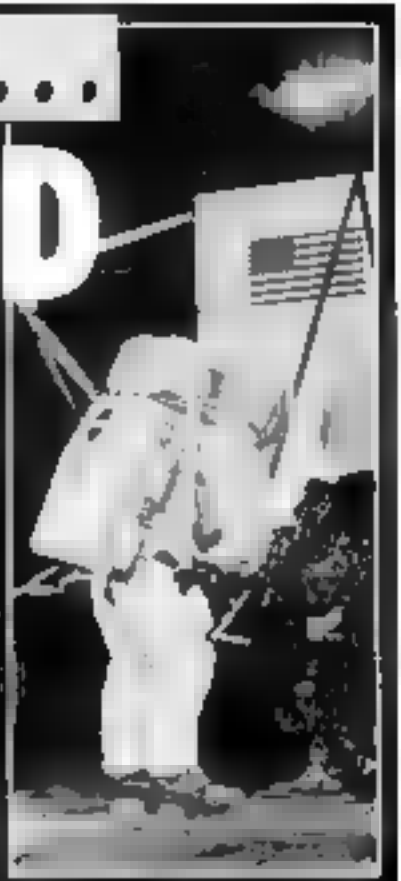
WATER FOUND ON MOON IS ASTRONAUT PEE!



NASA refuses to identify the astronauts who left the urine on the moon, for reasons of "personal confidentiality."

By ALEX MORGAN

Forget about all the hullabaloo over scientists finding ice on the moon — now red-faced NASA officials have discovered the frozen liquid came from a couple of astronauts who had to relieve themselves during moonwalks back in the 1970s!

This is perhaps the most humiliating episode in the history of the U.S. space program," said an inside NASA source, who asked to remain anonymous. "When the ice was first discovered it was obvious by very exciting news — and in their rush to make an announcement, several high-ranking officials forgot to check all the facts."

[redacted] said the astronauts who left the spots on the moon have been identified but their names will not be made public.

"Quite obviously they didn't relieve themselves like some men do if they are out on the moons or on a golf course," the source said. "Astronauts' space suits allow them to empty their bladders at any time they need to and the urine is stored in a special pouch.

"They can discharge the contents of this pouch whenever they want. They did that while they were on the surface of the moon. And now all these years later there has been a sensible misunderstanding.

"Originally we thought we'd found a huge frozen lake on the moon — and turned out to be just a small patch of British human urine."

Govt. warning: Vampires terrorizing menstruating women!

By KEVIN CRIED / Weekly World News

BRASOV, Romania — The Romanian Tourist Bureau has issued an official statement warning women who are having their periods not to hike in the vampire-infested Carpathian Mountains — because menstruating women are 20 percent more likely to be attacked by the violent blood-suckers!

A recent government report stated that there were 367 vampire attacks on women in 1998 — 238 of them fatal. Of those attacks, an amazing 217 of the victims were at some stage of their menstrual cycle.

The majority of the women were visiting from other countries — and 297 were American.

"In America, people think a vampire is just a phony monster that someone in Hollywood dreamed up," said Tourist Bureau spokesman Lajos Croiaja.

"But here in Romania, most people know better.

"There is an actual medical condition called porphyria. One particular variety of the illness, known as 'the vampire strain,' is characterized by a severe iron deficiency. The vampire strain gives victims an insatiable thirst for human blood.

"Unfortunately, it also gives them supernatural strength.

"Scientists don't know why, but there are an unusually large number of these vampires in the Carpathian Mountain region. Romanians know to avoid that area at night. And women here know that traveling at that time of the month is [illegible]."

One of vampire porphyria's symptoms is an enhancement of the senses. Experts believe that vampires, like sharks, are very sensitive to the smell of blood. They cannot resist the urge to attack when the scent is in the air.

Croiaja says he hopes the warning will not discourage visitors from coming to Romania.

"We hope the severity of this Carpathian Mountain situation won't cause people in other countries to overreact," he said. "There are a lot of wonderful things to see and do in our nation.

"Please don't let this one trouble spot blind you to the beauty of the rest of Romania."

Three days after little Emma was buried, Bernt, then a 26-year-old medical intern, condemned himself to a wretched life as a wheelchair with a suicide leap that succeeded only in shattering his spine.

"They didn't send me to prison for what I did because I hadn't been in trouble before," Knutsson told Weekly World News in the only interview he's given in more than three decades. "So I put myself in my own prison.

"When I finished [illegible] I decided I'd never drink another drop of alcohol. I have paid a price in that terrible decision. I have a feeling it doesn't matter to anyone but her death also ended my life. I deserve worse."

Knutsson was tried and convicted on a charge of causing a death while driving intoxicated. At his trial he refused to present any defense or offer any excuse for what happened that terrible winter day.

His friends who testified in his behalf said he had been putting in long hours studying for an exam he had earlier flunked and was dead tired [illegible] and [illegible] much as a drunker.

"Apparently the alcohol didn't really hit him until he was driving his car. Bernt has never talked about it, but witnesses said his car started swerving all over the road before it veered onto the side walk where the child was walking with her mother.

"Bernt's car merely brushed the mother aside. But it hit the child full on, flinging her several feet through the air. Mercifully, she was killed instantly. The little tot never knew what hit her."

Knutsson tried to kill himself and his own life by leaping from the roof of his four-story apartment building.

"I wanted to die," Knutsson explained. "I had no right to live. But all I did was make myself a helpless cripple.

"Being here at Emma's grave every day is my penance. Her father is dead now, but Emma's mother comes at least once a week. I always move away. I have no right to cause her any more pain.

"But I return after she leaves. I sit at here with Em-

Fed-up wife cuts off hubby's manhood — then flushes it down the toilet!

BEVERLY — Bessworth Gerda Nielsen, 33, popped off her husband's penis with a pair of scissors on the sleep — then flushed it down the toilet.

The woman told her husband was a bride who cuckolded him with her own other she told him she didn't mind, but with the proviso that it would be kept discreet. So the next time of the predators in the night was their love — then flushed the manhood down the toilet so it could never be reattached.

World's HOTTEST calculus teacher wants my body!

Chris in South Carolina

Dear Dottie: You wouldn't believe how clumsy my math teacher is. I mean every day she drops her pencil like 10 or 12 times right where she walks by my desk. And then, of course, she has to bend way over in front of me to pick it up. And with those short skirts she wears — Lord, have mercy! — I have to turn my head to keep from having a heart attack. She doesn't wear panties, either! I wouldn't mind if she were an ugly old prune in her 40s or 50s like most of my teachers — at least that way I [redacted] excited. But she's like just out of college and looks like a stunner girl! Help me, Dottie! Please! — Chris in South Carolina

Dear Chris: I got quite the chuckle out of your letter yesterday and I bet I'm sure your calculus teacher, principal, parents and preacher will, too! By the way, I will expect to see all of them on the nationwide channel that shows the slightest little glimpse of your hide might be true.

For starters, Dottie, my son is a leech!

Dear Dottie: My ex-convict son quit school in the 11th grade and he's been hanging around the house without a job ever since. He stays out of trouble and helps me [illegible] smoke all day and night. And, if I were betting on it, I'd have to say he's on [illegible] drugs. I've told him to get out and stay out more times than I can count. But what does he do? Pack up and leave? No — he laughs in my face. I know a good mother is supposed to love her son but I've got to be honest — I don't even like him anymore. Besides, at the age of 26, he ought to be on his own. What should I do? — Tina in New Jersey

TINA in New Jersey

Dear Tina: Off-duty cops are ALWAYS looking for ways to "rescue" their night sticks — and they work cheap, too. Why don't you ask one to pay a visit — and show that homeboy you call a son the door?

I could laugh at fat people, all day long!

Dear Dottie: I'm a 17-year-old girl who's been told by my friends that I'm pretty funny. I like to make people laugh and I'm always cracking jokes. But I've got a problem. I'm a big girl myself and I'm always making fun of fat people. I know it's wrong but I can't help it. Whenever I see a fat person, I start laughing. Before anybody gets mad — just look at my picture. Whew! I'm a fatty, too! — Fiona in California

FIONA in California

Dear Fiona: You're fat all right — a big fat drunk. And when you joker up and realize that you were the butt of this joke, you're really going to laugh — NOT!

Why did God kill Mommy and Daddy?

Dear Dottie: I am 9 years old. I love my mommy and daddy but God made their car wreck and now they are dead. I don't know if they're ever coming back. My Sunday School teacher told me that God can do anything. Will He bring them back? — Tiffany in Arkansas

Dear Tiffany: I'm not saying it's [illegible] easy for anyone to lose [illegible] Mommy and Daddy but [illegible] to losing. And it might not be [illegible] that one day you'll grow [illegible] a deep, all-consuming [illegible] and you'll be a [illegible] person. And I'm sure [illegible] the place [illegible] for an [illegible] in the [illegible] and perfect place that you'll have [illegible] the joy of [illegible] and when that day comes my young friend, it's proper [illegible] that you remember that [illegible] Dottie and [illegible] helped you to keep the faith. Because who knows? As long as I'm out and [illegible] air I've been on my job and in the [illegible], I might have [illegible] and done a few things that may have been upon [illegible] by a Higher Power. And if that were the case, my [illegible] friend, then I might [illegible] you and your parents after you get [illegible] together with them. So keep praying and trusting in God, Tiffany, and [illegible] in your heart that He will make you and your mommy and daddy a family again. And even if I'm not personally there to witness the [illegible] of your wedding, I know in my heart that I'll be [illegible] with you in spirit. And please [illegible] me back! My Sunday School teacher told me that God can do anything. Will He bring them back? — Tiffany in Arkansas

Dear Tiffany: I'm not saying it's easy for anyone to lose Mommy and Daddy but it's going to be okay. And it might not be long. And it might not be tomorrow, but one day, real soon, they'll grace you with a deep, all-consuming [illegible] and you'll be a [illegible] person. And I'm sure [illegible] the place [illegible] for an [illegible] in the [illegible] and perfect place that you'll have [illegible] the joy of [illegible] and when that day comes my young friend, it's proper [illegible] that you remember that [illegible] Dottie and [illegible] helped you to keep the faith. And if that were the case, my [illegible] friend, then I might [illegible] you and your parents after you get [illegible] together with them. Who should I marry: Jay Leno or David Letterman?

Dear Dottie: I'm madly in love with Jay Leno and David Letterman. I know they are wealthy but money isn't the thing with me. I want a man who can laugh at life and who loves his woman. Aside from that there's not that much to worry about. Deciding which late-night dreamboat to pay me is what I can't decide. Who would you go after, Jay or David? Par this. It's a real toss! — Cindy in Ohio

CINDY in Ohio

"Capital punishment will soon be one of the most lucrative industries in America," Ingerdon says. "As the public begins to take capital punishment more and more seriously, America will be paying executioners $5,000 to $10,000 per job."

As the number of murders in this country increases, and more killers are sentenced to death, qualified executioners are going to be at a premium.

"The public must complain and be really upset and outraged," Ingerdon says. "Consider the recent beatings in the state of Florida where two girls were brutally raped on live TV. [illegible]

PROTECT YOUR PET FROM HEART DISEASE — WITH LOTS OF LOVE!

Giving your pet large doses of love and affection makes it much healthier, according to a new university study that could cast doubts on many laboratory research.

"We found that even on a high cholesterol diet, animals treated with love and affection came down with [illegible] third to one-half of the heart disease that the other animals suffered," says researcher Dr. J. Fredrick Cornhill.

In fact, he said, the study revealed that love and affection decreased the amount of cholesterol that formed on the artery walls.

In the study, five groups of rabbits were fed a high-cholesterol diet.

Two of the groups received normal laboratory animal care. But the other three groups received personal attention and love.

"They were treated like pets," said Dr. Cornhill.

The researchers, he said, established a "one-to-one relationship with each animal in these groups. Each animal was handled, stroked, talked to and played with."

While the loved rabbits turned out to be healthier, the rabbits that were unloved showed a significantly higher incidence of heart disease, said Dr. Cornhill.

The implications of the study are far-reaching, observed Dr. Michael Fox, an expert in the study of animal behavior.

"It puts a big question mark on the validity of a lot of animal research. It could mean that a lot of lab studies on animals aren't worth a damn.

"What we do to animals — often unthinkingly — affects them and may then affect the validity of our results."

Dr. Fox added, "Too many people don't meet the emotional needs of their own pets. An animal that's shown love and affection will be a [illegible]."

MUSLIMS STONE GAL BECAUSE THEY THOUGHT SHE WAS NAKED!

BAHRAIN, Saudi Arabia — When word spread that a French tourist was topless nude on the beach near this conservative Muslim town, an angry mob poked her with sticks from a hillside, then chased her for nearly a mile along the shore, vowing to beat the "heathy." Is my wife having a lesbian love affair?

Serena Sabak

HENRY in Illinois

Dear Serena: I'm afraid my wife is cheating on me but not with another man — I think she's having an affair with a woman!

We've been happily married for seven years and she has always been kind of shy about sex. But lately she has taken a real interest in some of my Playboy magazines — even though she used to say they were disgusting. I didn't think anything of it until she started spending a lot of time with a woman who one of my friends said is a lesbian. She'll never are what they do together and I'm afraid their relationship has become more than just a friendship. Am I being too suspicious or is my wife having a lesbian love affair? — Henry in Illinois

Dear Henry: Your wife is having an affair with this woman — and it's not the first time. You are entering a complicated period in your marriage. Your wife will soon tell you the whole truth. She loves you very much and wants to stay with you. But she wants to have girlfriends. It will be up to you to decide whether you can still remain married.

Dear Serena: I have an overwhelming feeling that one of my cats is the reincarnation of my best friend. She died in a car wreck three years ago about the same time I got the cat. My friend loved to play tennis and this cat spends all day playing with tennis balls. And the cat has really big, friendly eyes — just like my friend did. That's the only evidence I have, but for the past few months I've had a feeling in my heart that my cat this was my best friend. Am I right? — Priscilla in Maine

STUART in Georgia

Dear Priscilla: Your cat is not a reincarnation of your friend. You have been thinking about your friend so much she's been trying to contact you from the afterlife. Meditate about her when you go to bed, and her message will become clear.

PRISCILLA in Maine

Dear Serena: Can you please help me? I have a problem that is ruining my life. I can't stop nibbling fine of people. I try everything but I just can't stop my terrible habit. I have even been convicted a couple of times when I made fun of the strong people but that still didn't help me. Can you read your hand and tell me what I can do to stop? — Desperate in Georgia

Dear Stuart: The spell has been cast. You probably have already noticed you are becoming a much nicer person. A lot of credit goes to you for realizing you needed to change your personality.

Dear Serena: Maybe this sounds dumb but whenever my dog sees me naked I feel really weird inside. It makes me think he might have been a person in a former life — maybe even some creepy old man. Serena, can you give me a "past life" reading on my pet? — Creeped out in Georgia

Dear Creeped out: Your pet never was a human in a former life — and he never sees you when you are naked. I have studied on. The things you have are more of a reflection of your most recent past life, when you were a very small and cold-blooded lady.

Dear Serena: Will my husband ever come back to me? When he left he said it was forever, but in the past he's always come back. I guess this time I'm a little concerned because he's been gone for more than a year and I heard he even moved out of the country. Please tell me, is he gone for good? — Jessica in California

LeCHART in Ohio

Dear Jessica: He'll return to you very soon, but he will be bringing his new fiancee. Get a new lawyer and find the paperwork however him as it never can't.

Dear Serena: My grandmother sent me a card for my XIII birthday. It had only $10 in it, which is weird because she sent my sister and both my brothers $50 when they turned 13. Why did I get cheated? I'm hoping it was a honest mistake. — Zachary in Ohio

Dear Zachary: Your grandmother considered not sending you any money since she learned you blew to pay your speeding tickets last month. But being the kind woman she is, she decided to send you $10 anyway — so don't complain.

PERSONAL TO . . .

'IT'S A MIRACLE'

SAY BAFFLED DOCS!

CINCINNATI, Ohio — Miraculous pianist Lee Trilby is totally paralyzed from head to toe, but mysteriously he can still play the piano — while lying flat on his back!

Trilby is a former concert pianist who was crippled in a terrible 1997 car crash. He suffered complete paralysis in the wreck and today can't even speak or blink.

But for reasons doctors can't explain, Trilby's arms come alive by themselves and play everything from beautiful sonatas to rousing show tunes.

His wife Janet is as baffled as the doctors — and says she was stunned when she heard her disabled husband playing the piano bench in late July.

"He spends most of his time in the hospital bed we bought for him to have here at the house," she said. "I roll it around to different windows so he can look outside.

"One day I had put him so he could see out the back window. He was near the piano and from the other side of the house I heard him playing.

"I couldn't believe my ears," she said. "I ran in there and Lee was lying on his back with his hands back on the piano keys, playing some jazzy ragtime piece."

But as astonishing as it was to see paralyzed Lee playing, Janet soon became brokenhearted when she realized her husband was still paralyzed.

"He couldn't move any other part of his body," she said. "It was like his arms had become possessed by the grace of God — and they were magically playing the piano."

In the past three months, Janet has rolled Lee over to the piano nearly every day — and he always plays up a storm.

"The doctors can't explain it," she said. "One of them fumbled around talking about some kind of latent reflex reaction or something, but he admitted he didn't know what he was talking about. None of Trilby's specialists would agree to comment on the condition — and he doesn't seem to be getting better.

"It's heartbreaking because the medical professionals is afraid they don't have any idea what is going on," he says. "Perhaps we have to be satisfied with calling this a miracle."

"That's the only way I know to explain it."

Paralyzed pianist still plays beautifully — while lying flat on his back!

China orders millions of men to get sex changes!

BEIJING, China — China's disastrous one-child-per-couple law has led to such an imbalance between men and women — one male for every three females — that officials have launched a plan to "encourage" millions of men to get sex changes!

choice of going under the knife or serving decades in so-called reeducation camps, according to a report in a Taiwanese newspaper.

The plan will go into effect by the Year 2000, the report states.

Many Chinese couples, determined to have male children, have resorted to abortion and even infanticide to get rid of unwanted baby girls.

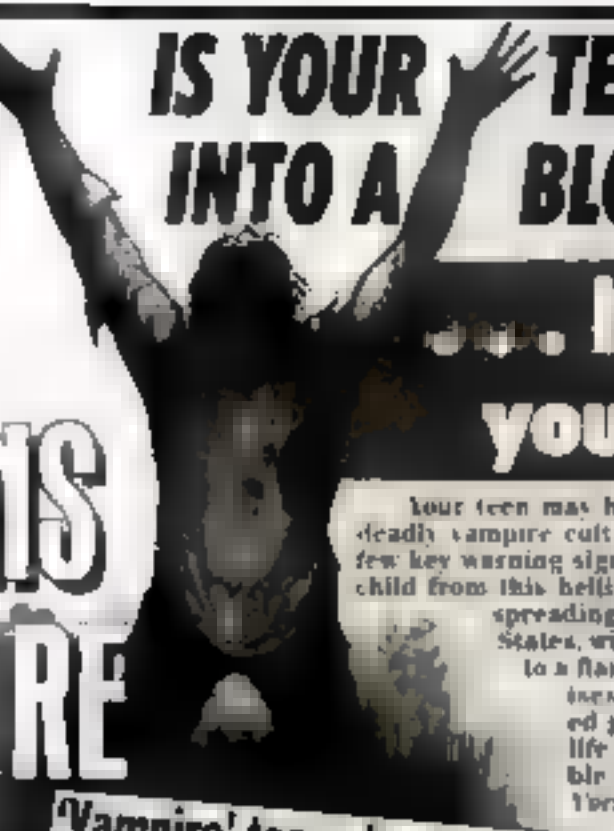
BLOOD LUST SPAWNS VAMPIRE CULTS IN U.S.

IS YOUR TEEN TURNING INTO A BLOODSUCKER?

... here's how you can tell:



Your teen may have already been recruited into a deadly vampire cult — but by learning to recognize a few key warning signs, you can act now to rescue your child from this hellish subculture. "Vampire cults are spreading like wildfire through the United States, with teens being attracted like moths to a flame with promises of unlimited power, eternal life and incredible sex," the New York Post warned recently.

By MIKE FOLTIN
World Exclusive

The hit grim movie Interview with the Vampire based on Anne Rice's best-selling novel spawned countless vampire-enthusiast organizations around the country, experts say.

While some of these groups are made up of harmless young horror buffs, others are evil "clans" that actually drink human blood.

In Houston, 17 teens in vampire costumes kidnapped a 17-year-old boy, sexually assaulted him, set him on fire — then tried to rip out his heart!

Four teens belonging to a Kentucky blood-drinking cult were arrested for the torture murder of a mentally retarded girl.

Experts say the following are warning signs that your teen has been lured into one of these blood-crazed cults:

● PALE COMPLEXION — Vampire wannabes favor pale skin tones, so they may start using pale foundation makeup. Also, they may start wearing dark sunglasses to protect their eyes from sunlight.

● BLACK CLOTHING — Dark clothes are a "dead ringer" for young vampires. They wouldn't be caught dead in bright apparel.

● BLACK FINGERNAILS — This is a definite vampire ritual trademark — particularly when only one hand is painted.

● BECOMING A NIGHT OWL — If your teen begins staying out later and later each night, while "sleeping in" well into the day, he or she is very likely caught up in the vampire lifestyle.

● SUNGLASSES, EVEN AT NIGHT — Vampire cultists are taught to fear the sun and never leave home without their shades.

● FIXATION ON DEATH — Teens who exhibit an unhealthy concern with death — hanging out at cemeteries, for example — or talk obsessively about immortality, are easy prey for vampire cults.

● SYRINGE CONTAINED IN REFRIGERATOR — If your teenager begins leaving odd-looking unmarked bottles in your fridge, beware: It could be

Oldster forgot where he parked rental car — and he's been looking for it for more than a month!

By ANN VICTORIA / Weekly World News

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — An elderly man who forgot where he parked his rented car owes the rental company a staggering $2,198.40 — and the bill is getting bigger with each passing day!

The ordeal began 32 days ago when Robert Cuffler, 71, took his car into an auto repair shop and rented a Cadillac Sedan DeVille.

"I only needed a car for a couple days," says the retired welder. "And I always wanted to drive a Cadillac. So even though it was expensive, I decided to splurge. After taxes, license fees and those other hidden costs the rate came to $68.70 per day."

Cuffler says he lost the car the first day he had it. He parked in the parking lot of the restaurant at the Las Olas district — at least he thinks that's where he was.

"I walked around and looked at the little galleries and coffee houses and took photos," he says. "I have no idea how long I walked or exactly where I went, but when I decided to go back to the car, I couldn't find it.

"I've looked for it every day since. But the more I tell people about my problem, the more I realize that it's not just people in Florida who've misplaced the same thing. Happens with people in every city.

"I look at it as a good way for people to meet. The other day we exchanged the same thing happening with people in New York.

"I have no idea how many thousands are driving around with rented cars they've misplaced. The Americans comprise a large portion of our population. We had the cases of this each year [illegible]."

Not surprisingly, the rental company is not overjoyed. But they really have no choice but to keep the car rental open until we get the car back."

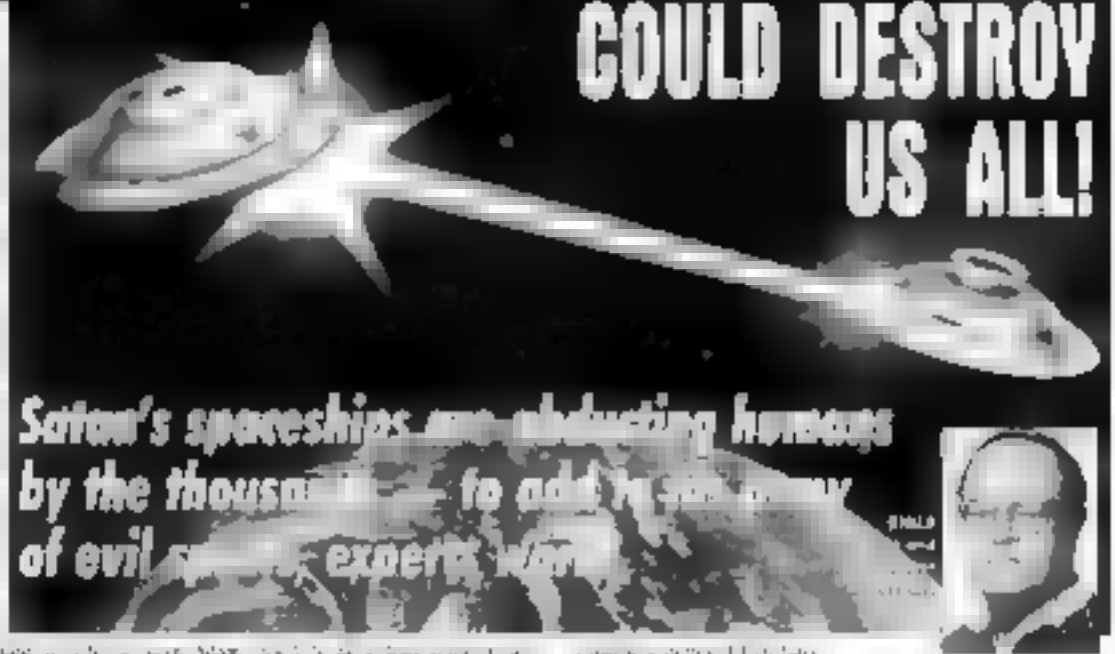
UFOs ARE PILOTED BY ANGELS & DEMONS — & THEY'RE PLANNING A DOGFIGHT THAT COULD DESTROY US ALL!



By MICHAEL FORSYTH
Weekly World News

UFOs that crash on Earth are not flying saucers piloted by ordinary space aliens — they are faster-than-light vessels operated by demons and blasted out of the sky in dogfights with good angels!

What's more the ghosts of the alien demon pilots haunt the Earth — terrorizing humans and wreaking havoc.

And chillingly their numbers are growing steadily larger as we head toward the year 2000 and the final battle between the forces of good and evil, a startling new book warns.

"A big one is coming," Bible expert Thomas E. Horton, author of the new book Why? Angels and UFOs said in an exclusive Weekly World News interview.

Horton believes that God is slightly ahead of the devil — but it is only a matter of different levels of galactic travel. Earth is a battle ground in a war that has been going on since UFOs ...

The Bible repeatedly refers to the use of evil UFOs by Satan, for example, God's banishment of Adam and Eve from the garden of Eden is described this way:

"So He drove out the man and He placed at the East of the Garden of Eden Cherubims and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life." (Genesis 3, 24)

Says Horton: "I personally believe these were heavenly beings in UFOs, hovering over the entrance of the garden, beaming down a ray resting a from pale ... to keep ... from ... and Eve from returning."

Horton contends that there are billions of angels.

But before the start of human history one third of the angels joined Satan in a rebellion against God.

"I believe this confrontation was the first intergalactic angelic war," said Horton.

Many angelic craft were lost in the battle and Satan and his host were forever banished from Heaven — which is where mankind comes in.

"I believe God is going to replace Satan and his followers with people from Earth who put their faith in His word and follow Him," said the Bible expert.

The Good Book actually speaks of three Heavens. The first is our own upper atmosphere, the second is the stars and the third is the ultimate Heaven where God lives.

"Satan and his angels have been banished from the third Heaven," Horton says. "The Archangel Michael, and his ... still patrol its boundaries to ... but the ... power, battle ... Then ... perhaps battle between UFOs. They literally shoot what appear to be balls of light at one another, trying to destroy each other."

This explains the phenomena known as "shooting stars," he explained.

"Not everything that looks like an asteroid coming in really is one ... some are really falling UFOs that have been hit and are burning up."

Contrary to common belief both good angels and fallen ones — also known as demons — have physical bodies and can be killed.

When the bodies of fallen angels are destroyed in UFO dogfights their disembodied spirits live on and create chaos on Earth.

... have shot down over the centuries ... an ever-increasing population of evil spirits here.

But the fact that our planet is now swarming to capacity with screaming evil spirits is only the tip of the iceberg, the author warns.

Satan knows that the final war between good and evil is fast approaching — and that his army, composed of only a third of the angels, is outnumbered by the two-thirds that are loyal to God.

Because angels can't breed, Satan's minions have embarked on a program of genetic engineering, trying to create a race of intelligent beings that can level up his ranks.

They UFOs routinely abduct humans, steal their sperm and egg cells, manipulate the genetic material, then implant the hybrid embryos in women who are dropped off on Earth with their memories of the visitation erased.

"Later the fallen angels return to Earth and retrieve the offspring," said Horton.

The whole universe is moving inexorably toward a final battle, in which the whole world — including humans, angels and demon-spawned hybrids — will be fighting over Jerusalem.

"I believe that war has already begun in the skies above us," says Horton.

You can order a copy of Why? Angels with UFOs by contacting Thomas Horton at PO Box 188, East Northport, PA 13091. The cost is $13.56, including sale tax and U.S. shipping.

Cops continue hunt for the 'Zorro Rapist!'

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain — Police are hunting for a sex fiend who's been sick named the Zorro Rapist. The twisted victimizes an electric razor and shaves his trademark — the letter M — into the hair of his victims before disappearing like the fictional sword-wielding bandit.

But the victims, who range in age from 16 to 31, say the shaven creep looks nothing like the sexy actor Antonio Banderas who plays Zorro on film, describing their assailant instead as short and bald. Police believe M [illegible] first of his victims

WORLD'S FIRST ANGEL-TO-[illegible] DICTIONARY!

LONDON — Commencing with the [illegible] will soon get a whole lot easier. A publishing company has put out what it calls "the first Angel-English dictionary."

Until now, most angel lore consisted [illegible] but spoke in other tongues or an unintelligible language believed to be the native tongue of the celestial beings — leaving the translation difficult. The new book will help resolve the problem, [illegible] by God's messengers into important revelations the authors claim.

YO-YOS WERE USED AS DEADLY WEAPONS!

Donald Duncan who invented the [illegible] came up with the idea by watching Filipino sailors playing with yo-yos that had cards attached to them. The cards were used to slice enemies to death. The cards were shrill to [illegible] the cards afterward.

MAN KILLED BY CURSE OF MUMMY'S HAND!

A real-life Indiana Jones was killed by an [illegible]-old Egyptian curse, researchers say.

While exploring Egypt back in 1884, English adventurer Walter Ingram discovered the mummified hand of an ancient princess. Hand clutching a gold plaque inscribed on the plaque were the chilling words, "Whoever takes me away to a foreign country will die a violent death and his bones will never be found."

Not to be deterred by silly superstition, the stupid Englishman brought the cursed hand back to London. Sure enough, four years later in the wilds of Africa, Ingram was trampled to death by a elephant. Native guides carefully buried his body at the bed of a dried-up river; but when people later returned to recover his body they found that a freak flood had washed it away!

ST. LOUIS WOMAN

MEDICAL MYSTERY OF THE YEAR!

St. LOUIS, Mo. — Doctors call perky mom Judith Heuvret one of the most unusual women in the world because she lays eggs just like a hen — and babies have hatched from three of them!

"There are no more than a half dozen such cases in the medical history books," said Dr. Peter Penley, a top British specialist who was called in to examine Mrs. Heuvret and her tots. "This case is truly amazing, particularly because the children appear to be perfectly healthy."

Incredibly Mrs. Heuvret "invents" an egg just like a mother hen — earning her the nickname of Chicken Lady among her flabbergasted neighbors. In addition to her newly hatched son Andy, she has produced two other egg babies, daughters Kim, 3, and Elinor, 2.

Until now the embarrassed Heuvrets have kept a low profile to avoid unwanted publicity.

But recently they allowed a Weekly World News cameraman to move into their home and follow the miracle mom in the weeks leading up to the delivery of her youngest child.

"Watching that baby use its tiny [illegible] to smash its way out of its shell was the most indescribable thing I've ever seen," it was awesome and moving at the same time," the photographer said.

Experts believe Mrs. Heuvret's unusual reproductive system results from a rare "evolutionary throwback," perhaps caused by recessive genes. "Science has demonstrated that humans descend from amphibious egg-laying creatures," explained Dr. Penley. "From time to time throwbacks do crop up. There are a handful of reports from around the world about women who've delivered eggs the same way as bird-brain mama, but the offspring were stillborn or expired after a few hours."

'Watching it's way'

Mrs. Heuvret's babies are the only ones [illegible] of that have developed to full term and have successfully lived after hatching."

The 28-year-old housewife says she first began to produce eggs at puberty. "When my friends got their periods they had cramps, but my pains were out of this world," she recalled. "And when an egg the size of an ostrich egg dropped out of my body, I nearly fainted!"

But it wasn't until she got married that an egg actually became fertilized in her womb. "I knew as soon as it plopped out that it was different," she revealed. "I was suddenly overcome by an urge to protect it. Every time I squatted down over it and gently shielded it with my body. My husband thought I was crazy, but I kept doing it for hours at a time."

After three months, just when Mrs. Heuvret's baby was about to demand that they get rid of the egg, a miracle occurred, he recalls. "We could see something moving inside the shell and we realized there was a baby inside. Five months later our first daughter was born!"

The couple tried to keep their story a secret. But it wasn't long before [illegible] discovered the al-

OTHER 'EGG BABIES' IN HISTORY

Sprinkled throughout medical history are rare but intriguing accounts of women laying eggs. Here are a few well-documented cases.

■ In 16th-century France, court physicians reported the case of a noblewoman who laid more than two dozen eggs over a two-year period. Although the men of science dutifully observed the eggs, none of them ever hatched.

■ In Beijing, China, in 1954, a married woman literary worker named Zhi Ying Li produced a reddish egg about twice the size of a duck egg. Physicians cracked open the egg and discovered the remains of a tiny human fetus.

■ In 1972, a Canadian woman laid a large egg, which hatched six months later. The infant's lungs were underdeveloped, however, and it expired after just a few hours. The [illegible]

NOSTRADAMUS' PREDICTIONS FOR 2000!

...rampers and killing millions. And Jesus Christ returns to Earth Easter Sunday -- meeting date and his demonic arch-foe face-to-face in an apocalyptic "good-versus-evil" showdown just months before all of history grinds to a halt . . . and the world comes to an end!

These are just a sample of the terrifying predictions dotted with uncanny accuracy throughout Nostradamus made for the Year 2000 ... predictions proving beyond doubt that we are, in fact, living in the End Times.

"These predictions are even clearer for more and they ought to scare the hell out of you," ...

By HENRY WEISS
Weekly World News

Historian Dr Ernst Mallon, who has spent the past 35 years studying the...

Although Dr Mallon gives a grim picture of our future as it flows from the pen of the great seer, the return of Christ will be the ultimate in the horror, pain and suffering. So what is it that Nostradamus is telling us is terrible? ... for you, for me, for everybody. But there are two things to live in."

Mallon says that although Nostradamus' predictions are given in the form of highly symbolic verses, 15 of the predictions are clear and precise that can only be interpreted one way."

Here are those 15 predictions, as given by Dr Mallon's interpretation ...

1 The sky over ... death falls from the sky on the side, dies with fire and there is death, the New Land burns and, the flames among and will ... This prediction couldn't be clearer ... and Dr Mallon. "The alarm of ... is the computer ... and the ... the Y2K computer glitch – the ... always — that we face at ... after midnight on January 1. ... Death falling from the sky is an obvious reference to nuclear warheads, ... first with fire, the explosions, and ... with stealth – invisible but deadly ... active fallout. The New Land is ... America. Unfortunately, Nostradamus doesn't specify any ... targets although judging from the ... prediction it would ... safe to say we're talking about strikes on a ... major population centers ... New York or Washington in the United States, Moscow or Russia."

2 The ghost seen and his wife pierced, ... killed by evil swords. Arms and sleeve and promises all to lead the people ... Antichrist triumphant over Babylon. "There's not much to interpret here ... although I think there were ... said Dr Mallon. "In fact, Nostradamus is telling us that terrorists will decapitate the ... president Bill Clinton and his wife, First Lady Hillary Clinton. The fact that he says they are killed during a ... sleep suggests they are attacked and killed in the White House. He further says they return triumphant to Babylon -- Iraq. "Triumphant in Babylon would mean with the object or objects of their mission — as the ... the Chosen heads."

3 The sea opens and closes, the sea ... opens and closes, the New City falls and stands to death, the Old City disappears. "The New City is New York City," said Dr Mallon, "and the Old City is Tokyo. The sea opening and closing is how Nostradamus describes how tsunami or possibly even earthquakes in the sea waves. To say that the New City falls and stands to death suggests a heavy loss of human life and heavy, but not total, property damage. Tokyo, apparently, will fare less well.

"When Nostradamus says 'wonders, he means it."

4 The tsunami and the people starve. ... dress north to south to meet to meet ... turned to the south gold east's days. "This is a reference to world drought of ... such severity that even the tsunami will do without," Dr Mallon said.

5 From the beginning the end ... tsunami, a night of confusion and ... death, the people cry the enemy draws ... to an enemy for two billion. "Nostradamus is predicting the emergence of an ... End Times virus," said global epidemic.

The "beginning" is likely where we ... hardly all new viruses come from and the end is what he says, two billion people face during the night of confusion.

"Of course, Nostradamus isn't the only one predicting a global epidemic. Leading ... are telling us to expect the same."

6 The secrets of the stars are known ... terror fills the land, who will save ... themselves and become the slaves of ... and of Gog?. "This prediction suggests that ... extraterrestrials come to Earth and ... its ... weaponry," Dr Mallon said.

7 Beauty and deadly threat and ... friend, an enemy draws within. "Nostradamus is telling us to expect a ... breakdown of civilization and anarchy and ... that will follow," said Dr Mallon. "It will be every man, woman and child for ...

8 On Easter Day our Lord does ... come, and all is happy in the Land. Satan ... with promises delights the ... begins badly for (ghastly people. "Third ... prophet," Christ will return to Earth and ... himself known as the Holy Land ... Jerusalem. I would ... on Easter Sunday," said Dr Mallon. "But the prediction goes on to tell us that Satan will be more than ready. And when the final battle between Good and Evil ... Armageddon ... begins, the forces of Evil will achieve early and devastating victories."

9 The New Land trembles for one ... cycle, in the East, Atlantis in the East, the gates of Hell. "This is a terrifying prediction indeed," said Dr Mallon. "Nostradamus is warning that for weeks, the New Land, the United States will be rocked by earthquakes as Atlantis rises in the East. But Atlantis, he tells us, isn't merely a lost city — Atlantis is the gateway to Hell."

10 The New Leaders are nothing, but their nether like sheep, the people are nothing, but they die like sheep. There is no safety or numbers ... big cities such as Los Angeles, New York, Kansas City, Atlanta, Miami, Philadelphia, Chicago, Dallas, Miami," said Dr Mallon. "Invisible enemies are terrorists."

11 They pretend to be who they aren't and the people are confused, why do they wear the Crown of Thorns? They are evil. "Nostradamus is warning of the Anti-Christ who will rise to power at the ... year 2000," Dr Mallon said.

12 Computers and hell for evil, their goodness a disruption. "This is a warning that Europe ... the old continents ... will fight for Satan in the battle of Armageddon," Dr Mallon said.

13 Some will serve Satan, others will not, the tsunami made on that day will feed forever, and yet the Battle rages on. "At some point during the year, apparently while the Battle of Armageddon is still being waged, there will be an ... by angels or rulers from Satan," said Dr Mallon. "The decisions people make about whom to serve ... Satan or God at this particular juncture in history will, as Nostradamus says, be irrevocable and will last forever. The fact that anyone might choose to side with Satan suggests that at this particular time, the war will be going badly for God and Christ."

14 The number is thirty, the church strong, those who remain are not ... "At the end of all things great waste, humanity is reduced to an animal like state," Dr Mallon explained.

15 In November 14 souls and bodies, 144,000 rise from the grave, to the kingdom of Heaven, to the Millenial Reign. "Nostradamus tells us God and Christ vanquish Satan and Evil on December 11, 2000 — the day the world ends," said Dr Mallon. "And he doesn't ... the truth – only 144,000 men, women and children are Heaven-bound," said Dr Mallon. "This figure is given to us in the Bible. And as terrifying as the prospect is, virtually everyone who ever lived is going to Hell."

STUDY REVEALS WHICH SIX LOTTERY NUMBERS COME UP THE MOST!

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A six-year nationwide survey has determined the numbers that come up most frequently in lotteries across the U.S. — and an expert has conclusive proof that they'll keep coming up the most often in the future!

And right here are the lucky numbers: 5, 16, 25, 31, 42 and 44.

While some mathematicians claim there's no guarantee these numbers will come up as frequently in the future, new evidence proves you CAN expect these numbers to pop up in lotteries all over the U.S.

MATH EXPERT Steven Rigel.

"There's a very complicated formula that indicates past results can be an indicator of future performance if the research is done correctly," said Dr. Steven Rigel, a noted math expert and former college professor. "The formula is difficult for even advanced mathematicians to understand and the tests must follow very rigid guidelines.

"For example, if you did a lottery numbers test with a small sample of perhaps six months or a year, there wouldn't be enough evidence to indicate which numbers are a solid choice to come up in the future."

"But statistics show that after four and a half years of studying at least 11 lotteries, you can establish a clear pattern," he said. "We added an extra 18 months and followed 34 different lotteries to confirm our findings — and the results kept coming back the same. Some numbers clearly come up more often."

But Dr. Rigel warned against assuming that the numbers will automatically come up every time.

"While you can be assured that the six most frequent numbers will continue to pop up all over the country, you can't be guaranteed that they will come up at any given time or in any given state lottery," he said. "Also, you can't be sure that they'll all come up in the same drawing to yield a full jackpot.

"But if I were advising a lottery player on what numbers to use, I wouldn't hesitate to say 5, 16, 25, 31, 42 and 44," he said.

"Those numbers have made a lot of money for a lot of people in the past few years. And MAN FINDS HIS SEVERED FINGER — IN A CAN OF GREEN BEANS!

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN: Manuel Mendes' missing right pinkie showed up — two years after it was severed.

By ENRIQUE VASQUEZ / Weekly World News

MEXICO CITY — Farm worker Manuel Mendes couldn't believe his eyes when he opened a can of green beans and found the finger he accidentally chopped off while working in 1985 — a coincidence that could never happen in the United States because processing plants here have far higher standards!

Pinkie was accident —

"It's a miracle," declared the 48-year-old farm worker after doctors confirmed that the perfectly preserved pinkie he recovered from the can really did belong on his right hand.

"After the accident two years ago I never expected to see my finger again.

"But just last week, there it was — packed in a can of green beans I had on a shelf in my kitchen."

The mind-twisting drama began on a sunny summer day in 1985, when Mendes sliced off his finger at the knuckle with the hookbill knife he was using to harvest beans.

"I felt a sting and then blood started spurting everywhere," said Mendes. "I'd like to sit here and tell you that I calmly packed up the severed finger and took it with me to the hospital.

"But I panicked. All I could think to do was run to my truck and drive to the emergency room, which is exactly what I did."

Mendes said doctors stitched the wound and sent him on his way.

He searched for the severed finger in the field a few days later. But the crop had already been harvested and he couldn't find it.

"As time went on I got used to having just four fingers and

The secret of looking younger is really quite simple — stretch your face every day.

Five to 10 minutes of facial muscle manipulation revives flagging muscle tone, firms up the face naturally and stimulates blood circulation in the skin.

"It keeps up my skin and helps me maintain a youthful look," said actress Britt Ekland, who credits her youthful appearance to facial exercises rather than plastic surgery.

Muscles lose their tone through the years, according to Dr. Jerry Schneider of Beverly Hills, Calif. Little jowls and double chins appear.

"Facial exercises help stimulate the natural oils of the skin," Dr. Schneider said.

His technique can be done at home. Here's how:

To tone muscles under your chin, push your chin up, and with the index and middle fingers of each hand, alternately stroke the muscles slightly lines and puffiness, repeat these same motions on your cheeks, stroking them upward five to 10 minutes a day.

To fight forehead frown lines, take a damp towel after bathing, and starting at the center of your forehead, in the opposite direction.

To erase smile lines around your mouth, fill your cheeks with air and blow them out as far as possible. Do this 20 times, three times a day.

"Out of curiosity, I compared it to my stump to see if it was a match. Sure enough, it looked like my finger. So I took it to the hospital to see what the doctors thought."

Dr. Javier Morales agreed that the finger belonged to Mendes. The farm worker took the purple home and put it in a jar of formaldehyde.

"Since newspapers reported the story I've been told that the chances of finding my severed finger in a can of beans were a billion to one against," said Mendes.

"Just think about it. After I slices it off, somebody had to pick it up as the harvest continued. Then the finger had to travel through a processing plant without anyone seeing it and wind up in the can."

Prayer is just one of many ways you can keep in touch with your guardian angel — there are dozens of other ways, says an expert.

"Your personal angel can be a source of companionship, comfort and wise counsel," says Dorothy Linton, author of the upcoming book, The Angel on Your Shoulder. "You should try to communicate with your angel at least once a day."

For her book, the Australian researcher interviewed more than 200 people who say they talk to their guardian angel on a regular basis.

She found there were a wide variety of methods they used to make contact. Here are seven of these proven techniques:

† MEDITATE AT SUNRISE — Angels appear to be most active at daybreak. Simply kneel down, close your eyes and clear your mind. If you're lucky, your angel will begin to communicate with you.

† LET YOUR FINGERS DO THE WALKING — Instead of throwing out an old telephone, turn it into your private "hot-line" to Heaven.

"Simply pull the phone out of the sock, then keep it by your bedside," says Miss Linton. "When you feel the urge to chat with your guardian angel, just pick up the receiver and start talking. There's a good chance your angel will talk back."

† LOOK AT THE STARS — Stand in your front yard and contemplate the heavens above. Gaze intently until a particular star catches your eye.

Now focus on that star and say hello to your guardian angel.

† VISIT A CEMETERY — Angels frequently "hang out" in graveyards where they give comfort to the grieving. This is an excellent place to contact your personal angel.

† STARE AT RELIGIOUS PAINTING — Find a religious painting or stained-glass window depicting an angel. Focus on the picture for 20 minutes or so, calling out mentally to your angel.

† GO TO SLEEP — As your mind relaxes, you open up to higher beings, says Miss Linton. "As you fall
